HARRISBURG INTERNATIONAL AIRPORT HANGAR

Tanner Trueax and Stanton Baker of eciService toured a hangar at the Harrisburg International Airport in Middletown, Pennsylvania.

This particular hangar is used to clean planes and the residual water, soap, and oil from their washes run into the pictured drain. However, recently the drain has been clogged and has to be manually pumped out by an outside company. Stanton was brave enough to climb into the drain to diagnose the problem and how to fix it. Service work at the Harrisburg International Airport will begin in the following weeks.

GREYSTONE PUBLIC HOUSE (HARRISBURG)

Tanner Trueax and Stanton Baker of eciService toured the Greystone Public House in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania to examine the repairs needed. Not to be confused with the nearby Greystone Brewhouse, the Greystone Public House is the original sister restaurant. The original stone building was built in 1798 by Godfrey Fritchey, who was one of Harrisburg's earliest settlers. Fritchey was originally born in Schoenlinder, Germany in 1755 and moved to America in 1783. By 1798, Fritchey built the two-story fieldhouse, however, it was not the typical 18th-century home for the Harrisburg area. The majority of houses built in the area at the time were smaller log structures, but Fritchey designed his house to resemble his former home in Bavaria. On April 16, 1805, Godfrey Fritchey obtained a liquor license to operate the Fritchey Tavern.

SECRET PASSAGEWAY

During the tour of Greystone Public House, Tanner found a old fashion secret passageway.
